PIC is excited to present the second presentation of the Speaker Series two part mini-series featuring Equity Connections. This three person panel presentation will discuss Empowering Parents as Change Agents: Advocacy, Allyship and Action. The conversation with Equity Connections will help you to conceptualize and better understand the different leadership roles parents can play in creating inclusive and equitable schools. Equity Connections will discuss:

- How equity and inclusion can benefit our children and improve schools.
- How to help our children navigate school systems.
- How parents can be effective equity advocates and allies.
- How parents can work together to identify and interrupt bias, stereotypes and other forms of inequity.
- How to create safe space for crucial conversations.

Please join PIC on Wednesday, March 24th for this engaging and informative presentation.
